Table Cells That Span Rows and Columns

The cells of this table span up to five columns and up to four rows, as the name in each cell says: 1x3 is one column wide and three rows tall. A cell spans columns with setColSpan and rows with setRowSpan, and draws its text, its background and its borders once over all of them. The table keeps its shape, so every row holds a cell for every column and the cells a span covers are left empty. The example is also a check of the geometry of the cells: their backgrounds meet without gaps and their borders line up. The header row above them numbers the columns.
